The main purpose of this paper is to show how recent research into the process of urbanization in Africa and into the structure of African cities and nations compels us to rethink our theories of urbanization in general. The relationship between theory and research is a reciprocal one.

Theories of Urbanization and the Colonial City in West

Urbanisation is still a case in african due to the failure for the planners to put in place their implemented policies and laws that is to increase on the standards of development due to poor planning skills especially in uganda the capital city is still poor in terms of planning.

that urban populations live in larger, denser, and more heterogeneous cities as opposed to small, more sparse, and less differentiated rural places. To locate the origin of urbanization today, we go back in time to identify the earliest form of urban life as beginning in the Middle and Near East "near what is today Iraq" around 3,500 BC.
